vana, whore she died, he didn't show iteratus any evidence that he had had to pay Lawyer Albert W. Cohn $2,500 in addition to the $1,205 previously paid to get it. He couldn't produce anything to show that litchards had authorized him to settle the case by the payment to Cohn. When he gave Cohn the $1,500 in cash that Cohn said he didn't want his client, Mrs. Golterman, to know anything about, Cohn told him that he wanted the cash to pay Levy Brothers for bringing him the cash. He did not know what part of the money was to go to Levy, or what Cohn was going to keep.

Lawyer Vermilya further testified that he couldn't show any receipts for the money that he testified on Thyraday as having paid to Richards personally. Of the whole $1,800 paid to Richards he had cheeks on the bank for $260 only. He never thought it necessary to take receipts for the payments. He gave Lawyer Dudley Bain, his associate, $1,000 of the Richards money because it was agreed between him and Bain that Bain should have that amount as a general retainer. When he first introduced Richards to Bain, however, he said nothing about the $1,000 fee. All that he did say was. "This is Mr. Bain, the gentleman who will help us get our money from the Goltermans. You needn't bother yourself about the fee. That will be all fixed satisfactorily."

Lawyer Vermilya produced a list of his personaler sensitives containing an item of $75

A former resident of San Francisco, who know Mrs. Richards when she lived there, said to the reporter:

"The Sun's report of these proceedings will surprise people who knew Mrs. Cook in San Francisco. Mrs. Cook, new Strasburger, was a young woman who, as a girl, had made a reputation as a ballet dancer in the minor theatres of San Francisco. While pursuage that profession she conducted herself with propriety, and lived with and supported her mother. She married a Mr. Cook, son of Look who was the partner of the late Joseph Palmer in the one famous banking fith of Palmer, Cook & Co of San Francisco. Mrs. Cook then gave up the stage, but after a shortterm of married lich, her husband being unwilling or unable to support her, she rented a small house in Powell street, near Clay atreet, and subject it to lodgers. Mrs. Cook was an active, high-spiffed, industrious little woman, who, in addition to doing all the household work without the aid of a servant, found time to do fine sewing and other work to eke out her slender income. With all she could do she had great difficulty in providing the plainest necessaries of life for herself and her mother, who was living with her and dependent upon hor. Such was her condition in 1880. Where or how she obtained the $20,000 worth of property leit in charge of Mrs. Golterman is a mystery upon which some light may be thrown when the reports in The Sun reach Ban Francisco."

The alloyed divorce from Cook and marriage to Richards will also be investigated there. Mrs. Cook's mother was living in 1880.

be thrown when the reports in The Sun reach San Francisco."

The alleged divorce from Cook and marriage to Richards will also be investigated there. Mrs. Cook's mother was living in 1880, a hale-looking woman, apparently not over 50 years old, with several years of life before her. There may be other relatives in California who are entitled to a share of the money. There was a report in San Francisco last year that Mrs. Cook had died somewhere in the East, but, as she was believed to be hapecunious, her relatives, if she has any living there, probably took no trouble to look after her effects. As reported, the case is one which needs to be fully investigated in San Francisco, pending which all the property left by Mrs. Cook, or Mrs. Richards, should be impounded by the Public Administrator, who, so far as it appears, has not been consulted as to its existence or distribution.

BURGLARS IN RIDGEWOOD. A Professional Job that was Interrupted by the Advent of Bill, the Heatler.

The barroom of Stroebel's Hotel, at Ridgewood Park, owned by John H. Kreuscher, was slosed shortly after 11 on Thursday night. About 1:30 o'clock next morning William Grus-ser, known everywhere as "Bill, the Hestier," awoke, and, striking a light, went to the bar-room to see what time it was. He was greatly astonished to discover that one side of the from safe's outer door had been artistically taken off, and was lying on the floor, and that one o the panels in the door of the saloon had been removed. A further examination showed him that there were two men besides himself in the saloon, and a third man was looking in through the hole in the door. He had scarcely mastered these particulars when the biggest of the men asked him what

He had scarcely mastered these particulars when the biggest of the men asked him what he was prowling about there for. He modestly replied that he wished to know the time. "Well, you had better go back to bed now," said the burglar threateningly. The hostler besitated, and then said he would like first to know what was going on in the saloon.

"Oh, I'll lot you know," said the man, and he struck him a savage blow under the eye with his fist. The hostler staggered against the ico box and roared "Murder!" arousing every-body in the house.

The burglars rushed out of doors justas Mr. Kreuscher, followed by his brother-in-law, Mr. Frederick Stroebol, entered the saloon. Suddenly Mr. Kreuscher remembered that his neighbor, dieorge Grauer, the landlord of the Ridgewood Park, had a large amount of money in his house, and, fearful that the burglars might pay him a visit, he directed his brother-in-law to hasten across the lot and awaken him. Mr. Stroebel seized his revolver and started on his mission, but he had not gone many yards when he was stopped by a dark object that stood in the road. Without a moment's hesitation he raised his pistol and fired. With a low grosn the form fell. Mr. Stroebel hastened back to the hotel with the announcement that he had shot a burglar.

By this time haif Ridgewood was aroused. When the people reached the place of the shooting they could discover no dead robbor, but they found Mr. Johnny Homeyer's large and handsome goat lying upon the road, prograted and dying. It was hard to console Mr. Homeyer for the loss of his goat, or to convince him that any burglars had been in Ridgewood that night.

Beturning to the hotel, Mr. Kreuscher estimated his losses. The burglars had taken all the money in the till—about $5. Then they had treated themselves to Santa Cruz rum and rock and rye whiskey. A box of cigars was found freshly opened upon a chair. The inner door of the safe was still closed and its contents were intact. As an offset to these losses, including Bill the Hostler's damaged eye, a

Mis Beisettres Stopped Visiting the Cambileg House Just Before the Pare Began. Police Captain Sanders was put on trial yesterday before all four Police Commissioners for not closing the gambling house at 105th street and Third avenue, and for reporting to Superintendent Murray that there were no gambling houses in the precinct.

Chief Murray testified that he got an anonymous letter on June 18, telling him that there was a gambling house at this address, and that he gave Detective E. F. Lewis $20 to gamble with there. On the evidence procured by Lewis, and with policemen from down in Eliza-beth street, Mr. Murray raided the place on the rested twenty-six men who were playing faro.

to gamble with?" Commissioner McCiave asked.
No. Neither do I. But if a Captain put in a bill for money so expended it would be paid. I expect to get my $20 back."
This was Detective Lewis's story of his experience in the gambling house:

perience in the gambling house:

I went there, and entered the side door of the house.

I went there, and entered the side door of the house.

The door was not locked; but a second door at the foot of a closed stairs leading to the second story was locked.

I rang the bell, and a negro through a wicket in the door asked me what I wanted. I said I wanted to play as I didn't know anybody in the place, he wouldn't let me in. I spent several nights getting acquainted with a neighboring saloon keeper, who finally gave me his card to get in with. I presented the card on the night of June 23, and, after the nearo who answered the bell had consulted the people up stairs. I was admitted. There were thirteen or fourteen people playing faro, and I bought some chips and began to play. I lost $9. The next night I went there I lost $8. The third night I came out even. The other two nights I went there I lost. came out even. The other two nights I went there I lost.

Mr. McNary of the District Attorney's office, who appeared for the prosecution, said he had no more evidence to offer.

Mr. Dos Passos, for Capt. Sanders, said, with apparent surprise. "You don't mean to rest your case without evidence showing that Capt. Sanders had knowledge of the existence of gambling in his precinct, and knowledgy permitted it?"

Mr. McNary intimated that it was Capt. Sanders's business to know, but Mr. Dos Passos said: "The prosecution must prove its case. This thing would be ridiculed in a court of justice."

anid: The prosecution must prove its case. This thing would be ridiculed in a court of justice."

Capt. Sanders took the stand, however, and testified that he had no knowledge, information, or belief that gambling was going on in the house. About Jan. I he heard that the place was a gambling house, and for three months he sent policemen to visit the place. They apparently discovered no gambling. About April I Inspector Dilks and the witness closed the place. Having no means of knowing the house had reopened, he had not turned his attention to it since.

Inspector Dilks testified that he had repeatedly visited the second story at Third avenue and 105th street, and only found people playing dominoes and whist and other games of cards. No gambling was going on.

Detective Sheldon testified that on the afternoon of June 22 he went to the place by order of Capt. Sanders, and found nothing suspicious going on. Detective Donovan said he had been there on the ovening of June 22, and found no wrongdoing. These detectives had no trouble in getting into the abode of innocence.

Mr. Dos Passos argued that a police Captain couldn't suppress a gambling house that he didn't know about, and that, as Capt. Williams was acquitted in the case based on young Walling's testimony. Capt. Sanders must be acquired. Mr. McNary said that the statute bads the police suppress gambling houses, and said nothing about what the police diun't know. Decision was reserved.

RMMA BOYNTON, 857 Washington street, Boston, says: "I have been afflicted for one year and nine months with what the dectors called rupis. I was taken with drasdful pains in the bead and body, my feet became so swollen that I was perfectly helpless, sores came so swollen that I was perfectly helpless, sores broke out on my body and face, my appetite left me, I could not sleep nights, I loss fiesh, and soon became so wretched that I longed to die. Physicians failed to help me. My disease daily grew worse, my sufferings became terrible. The sruption increased to great burrowing, foul-smelling sores, from which a reddish matter contantly poured, forming crusts of great thickness. Other sores appeared on various parts of my body, and I became so weak that I could not leave my bed. In this condition, and by advice of a well-known physician. I condition, and by advice of a well-known physician, began to use the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and in twelve carcely able to retain the simplest food on my atomach. The burning sensation was almost intolerable, and my whole system was deranged. I was wakeful and could not sleep, and consequently more or less nervous all the time. I declined in flesh, and suffered all the usual dewas miserable. At last, failing to find relief in any thing else, I commenced the use of Swift's Specific. began to improve at once. The medicine toned up the stomach, strengthened the digestive organs, and soon all that burning ceased, and I could retain food without difficulty. Now my health is good, and I can eat anyhing in the shape of food and digest it without the slightest difficulty. I most cheerfully bear this testimony, because there are hundreds suffering as I was, and I am sure they can be as readily healed. Take the prescribed dose after eating, instead of before. JAMES MANN, 14 IVY St.

Atlanta, Ga., May 13, 1885.

FREE PROM MALARIA. In the fall of 1884 I was taken with a case of malarial fever which prostrated me both in body and mind. I was drugged after the old fashion with mercury and other mineral mixtures, but with no good results. My health was shattered and my energy gone. My logs and feet would swell, and I had what everybody thought was dropey. These symptoms starmed me, and I was ready o grasp at any remedy suggested. A friend advised me o try Swift's Specific. I procured three bottles and commenced its use. The swelling soon subsided. I have taken the three bottles, which have made a perfect cure, and I feel like a new man to-day. There never was a more meritorious medicine offered to suffering humanity. It has wrought wonders for me.
